

COMPASS DECISION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM™

Motorola Solutions Compass Decision Management System™ offers an intuitive operational interface that supports the decision-making process for control room security operators and managers. From a single pane of glass, it provides organizations with a companion application that helps to improve consistency and effectiveness of response actions when presented with better insights from all their connected safety and security systems: video management, access control and key management, fire and intrusion detection panels, VoIP intercoms, telephony and public address, building automation and management, and IoT devices.
